

From: New from Zócalo
To: Kent Smith
Subject: The South Needed Atticus Finch
Date: Friday, July 17, 2015 3:08:40 AM

Glimpses

The Seedy, Funky, and Fabulous Hollywood Boulevard of the 1970s

From Hippies to Hookers, One Photographer's Unearthed Photos From a Not-So-Golden Era

In the 1970s, photographer Ave Pildas roamed Hollywood Boulevard, snapping thousands of shots of its many characters in patchwork denim bell-bottoms and floppy hats. There was the group of transvestites who posed next to Judy Garland's star on the Walk of Fame. And the boy dressed up for ...

READ MORE

Wednesday, July 29, 2015, 7:30 p.m.

Is Healthy Living Only for the Rich?

LaVonna B. Lewis, of the USC Price School of Public Policy, Tracie McMillan, author of The American Way of Eating, and Roshan Bastani, director of UCLA Kaiser Permanente Center for Health Equity, visit Zócalo to discuss why all Americans don't have an equal opportunity when it comes to their health, and what can be done to level this playing field. DETAILS

What It Means to Be American

Atticus Finch Confronted What the South Couldn't

In To Kill a Mockingbird, Harper Lee Recognized the Way White Southerners Face Harsh Truths. In Go Set a Watchman, She Did Not

BY W. RALPH EUBANKS

While there are many noble characters in the pantheon of Southern fiction, few have the iconic standing of Harper Lee's Atticus Finch. Since the publication of To Kill a Mockingbird more than 50 years ago, this fictional character has become profoundly real to many Southerners, and not just because of the ...

READ MORE

Wednesday, August 19, 2015, 7:00 p.m.

What Is the Future of L.A.'s Transit?

Phillip Washington visits Zócalo to talk about how his experiences in Denver and the military have prepared him to run Metro, where L.A. fits into America's larger transit landscape, and the politics of urban transportation today. DETAILS

Connecting California

California Needs to Get Over Its Fantasy of Constant Growth

For the First Time in Its History, the Golden State Has to Attract Newcomers as Well as Retain the People It Already Has

California has an official state flower (poppy), an official state insect (the dogface Butterfly), even an official state theater (the Pasadena Playhouse). But no official state sport.

Unless you count the great Californian pastime of overestimating our population growth.

It probably should be enough that we're the most ...

READ MORE

New at Zócalo

Transitioning Genders Isn't About Glamour BY NATALIE YEH

Greece Doesn't Need a Bailout-It Needs Investors BY BHAGWAN CHOWDHRY

The Confederate Flag's Gone, But Slavery's Still Here BY BRENDA STEVENSON

Why Pluto Still Deserves Our Love BY BONNIE BURATTI

When the Hunger for Freedom Becomes Self-Destructive BY LISA WHITEMORE

Live Performance Will Never Die BY PAUL BISCEGLIO

I Play Grand Theft Auto on My Phone #myLAcommute

Thanks to our media sponsor

Forward email to a Friend

This email was sent to kent@fashiondistrict.org by donotreply@zocalopublicsquare.org | Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe™ | Privacy Policy.

Zocalo Public Square | 725 Arizona Avenue | Santa Monica | CA | 90401